

Lauren Rosa Miller

LEGACY ARCHITECT · KEYNOTE SPEAKER · ENTREPRENEUR · NEXT GEN LEADER · CULTURAL STORYTELLER

"You don't have to start from scratch. You come from something. The work is learning to build on it."

ABOUT

Lauren Rosa Miller is a Howard University alumna, 5th generation entrepreneur, and legacy architect who built her first platform from a vision, a culture, and a community — before she had a roadmap. That is the story she brings to campuses. Not the polished version. The real one.

She pioneered Can't Stay Put, a lifestyle brand that grew to 25,000+ community members and earned national press across Essence, HuffPost, Travel Noire, XoNecole, and Blavity — not because she followed a formula, but because she built something that was genuinely hers. She then stepped into one of the hardest challenges any next-generation leader faces: transitioning her father's 35-year business while he was ill, while the business still had to run, and while no one had written any of it down.

Today, as Chief Growth Officer of Miller3 Consulting, Inc. and Founder of In The Room With Legacy, Lauren works at the intersection of entrepreneurship, family enterprise, and intentional legacy-building. She speaks to students and young professionals about what it actually means to build something — and why understanding where you come from is the most underrated competitive advantage you have.

She comes from a lineage of landowners and farmers spanning nearly 150 years. She carries that forward not as a burden but as a blueprint. And she comes to campuses to help the next generation find theirs.

THE PATH — BUILT, NOT ASSUMED

- HOWARD UNIVERSITY
Where the Foundation Was Laid
The HBCU experience as identity formation — learning not just a discipline but who you are and where you come from.
- CAN'T STAY PUT — FOUNDER
Building From Vision and Culture
25,000+ community members. National press. A brand built from scratch — before influencers had a playbook.
- MILLER3 CONSULTING — CHIEF GROWTH OFFICER
Stepping Up When It Counted
Led the second-generation transition of a 35-year institutional firm. Turned a family crisis into a business continuity story.
- IN THE ROOM WITH LEGACY — FOUNDER
Turning Experience Into Mission
Built a platform from lived experience — helping families and the next generation build legacy with intention, not accident.

SPEAKING TOPICS

- 01 KNOW WHERE YOU COME FROM: HOW YOUR LINEAGE BECOMES YOUR GREATEST ASSET
The most grounded leaders, builders, and entrepreneurs are the ones who know exactly where they come from. Lauren shows students how understanding their family history builds the identity, confidence, and clarity to move with authority — in business and in life.
- 02 YOU ARE ALREADY BUILDING A LEGACY — THE QUESTION IS WHETHER IT'S INTENTIONAL
Every decision you make right now is a legacy decision. Lauren helps students see that legacy is not something you plan for after you've "made it" — it's the sum of choices you're making today, and it starts now.
- 03 THE NEXT GENERATION'S ROLE: CARRYING FORWARD WITHOUT STARTING OVER
For students from family businesses, multi-generational households, or communities with deep roots — Lauren speaks directly to the weight and the gift of being next. What does it mean to honor what came before while building something of your own?
- 04 ENTREPRENEURSHIP AS STEWARDSHIP: BUILDING SOMETHING THAT OUTLASTS YOU
The best entrepreneurs don't just build businesses — they build institutions. Lauren draws on her experience as a 5th generation entrepreneur and second-generation business operator to show what it looks like to build with the long game in mind.
