ABOUT

Lauren Rosa Miller is a legacy architect, entrepreneur, and cultural thought leader who helps individuals and organizations move from living by default to building with intention. A Howard University graduate and 5th generation entrepreneur, Lauren built her first platform – Can't Stay Put – into a community of 25,000+ and became recognized as a pioneer of the Black millennial movement, earning coverage across Essence, HuffPost, Travel Noire, XoNecole, and Blavity.

When her father became ill, Lauren stepped into the active work of legacy – documenting decades of undocumented institutional knowledge, transitioning a 35-year family business, and learning firsthand that the most valuable things people build are often the least protected. That experience became the foundation of In The Room With Legacy, a platform helping individuals and families build legacy with intention before a crisis forces them to.

A viral tribute to her late father – viewed 3M+ times – brought national attention to the importance of legacy conversations, earning features on Good Morning America, ABC News, NewsNation, and USPS News. She has also delivered a TED-style talk at Harvard Business School to a standing ovation and been featured in Harvard Business Magazine.

Lauren brings this work into corporate spaces, helping employees – especially those building wealth for the first time in their families – understand that legacy is not just about what you leave behind. It's about how you live and lead right now.

SPEAKING TOPICS

- 01THE FAMILY IS THE FIRST INSTITUTION: BUILDING A MISSION-ORIENTED LIFE ON PURPOSE
- Most people build careers and accumulate wealth with intention — but leave their personal legacy to operate on assumption. Lauren reframes legacy as a practice that starts now, not later, and shows employees how to apply the same intentionality they bring to work to the life they're building outside of it.
- 02THE WEALTH YOU CANNOT SEE: WHY YOUR MOST VALUABLE ASSETS DON'T SHOW UP ON A PAY STUB
- For professionals building wealth — often as the first in their families — this talk reframes what wealth actually means. Relational capital, cultural knowledge, values, and story are assets too. And they require protection before they disappear.
- 03KNOW WHERE YOU COME FROM: HOW FAMILY HISTORY BECOMES PERSONAL POWER
- Understanding your lineage builds identity, confidence, and decision-making clarity. Lauren shows why the most grounded leaders are the ones who know exactly where they come from — and how to access that as a professional asset.
- 04DON'T WAIT UNTIL SOMEONE GETS SICK: STARTING LEGACY CONVERSATIONS BEFORE YOU HAVE TO
- Most families only become intentional in moments of crisis. Lauren speaks from lived experience and gives audiences the framework — and the permission — to start now, while the people and the knowledge are still here.

SIGNATURE WORKSHOP

From Paycheck to Purpose: Designing a Life and Legacy That Carries Forward

A guided half-day experience for employees and teams ready to move from personal success to intentional legacy. Participants clarify their values, define what they are building toward, and align their lives and leadership with that vision — ensuring what they build today is durable enough to carry forward.
