ABOUT

Lauren Rosa Miller is a 5th generation entrepreneur who has spent her entire career inside family enterprise — not studying it, but running it. From her first role training under ownership at an upscale restaurant to co-owning and transitioning a 35-year institutional firm, Lauren's expertise is not theoretical. It is operational.

When her father, D.J. Miller — a pioneer in government procurement and MBE/WBE policy — became ill, Lauren stepped into the work that most families avoid until it's too late. She documented institutional knowledge, formalized undocumented systems, and led the active transition of Miller3 Consulting, Inc. from first to second generation — while the business continued to run. That experience became the foundation of everything she teaches.

Today Lauren works with family-owned businesses and multi-generational enterprises to build the governance, succession, and values infrastructure that ensures what they've built doesn't end with them. She delivered a TED-style legacy talk at Harvard Business School alongside her mother to a standing ovation, and has been featured in Black Enterprise, Business Insider, and on national broadcast platforms.

SPEAKING TOPICS

- 01THE FAMILY BUSINESS OPERATING SYSTEM: GOVERNANCE, VALUES & STRUCTURE BEFORE YOU NEED THEM

Most family businesses run on unspoken rules and assumed loyalty. Lauren shows how to build the shared structure — clear roles, documented values, defined succession pathways — that lets the business outlast its founder.
- 02SUCCESSION IS NOT AN EVENT: BUILDING CONTINUITY INTO THE DNA OF YOUR ENTERPRISE

Drawn from co-leading a live generational transition — succession is not a document signed at a lawyer's office. It's a culture built over years. Lauren shows what that culture looks like from the inside.
- 03THE WEALTH YOU CAN'T SEE: WHY INTANGIBLE ASSETS ARE YOUR BUSINESS'S MOST VALUABLE HOLDINGS

Relationships, institutional knowledge, reputation, and values don't appear on a balance sheet — but losing them can collapse what the financials built. Lauren makes the case for protecting what can't be quantified.
- 04DON'T WAIT UNTIL SOMEONE GETS SICK: THE CASE FOR RADICAL FAMILY BUSINESS INTENTIONALITY NOW

Crisis forces most families into conversations they should have started years earlier. Lauren speaks from lived experience — and gives operators the framework to start before urgency takes away their options.

SIGNATURE WORKSHOP

The Family Business Operating System: Building Structure Before You Need It

A guided half-day experience for family business owners, operators, and next-generation leaders ready to move from unspoken assumptions to shared structure. Participants leave with a values framework, defined roles, and a succession roadmap they can begin implementing immediately.
